Providing Funerals of Distinction Since 1986

Every person's life is unique, and we acknowledge the importance of replicating an individual's life in how their funeral arrangements are conducted. With decades of experience, we have now gained an excellent reputation in arranging funerals in Scarborough and the surrounding areas through our premises in Sherwood Street.

In 1906 our main premises in Sherwood Street, Scarborough, was purpose built as a funeral home. Since then, we have adapted it to our modern needs, carrying out a wide range of different funeral services over the years.

In recent times, our premises has expanded by the opening of Sherwood House, 119 Victoria Road (on the corner of Sherwood Street) in November 2022 which has become our head office and front of house client areas. With a comfortable reception, two beautifully furnished arranging rooms and our working staff office. Subsequently this has meant, a change to the companies original premises at 6/8 has now become the dedicated chapels of rest with a peaceful lounge area for clients to come and pay their respects at our facilities. Also at 6/8 is our mortuary facility, by having our own facility this ensures that all our back room work is completed by our trained staff on site.

Our family operated funeral directors are the local market leaders for providing high quality funerals. Founded by Graham Roberts and his sister Christine, the family morals have continued through the decades. With Graham's son George joining the business in 2013 and George's step daughter Amelia in 2023. In addition to Graham's wife Amanda who also joined the business in recent times. With our team of funeral operatives who assist in bringing your loved ones into our care up to the day of the funeral where they act as drivers or bearers.

In 2019 and 2020, G. Roberts Independent Family Funeral Director achieved recognition as Runner's Up in the Golden Charter Funeral Planner Of The Year Award for Yorkshire and East Lancashire Region. Our continued service within the community was also recognised by finishing as a finalist in The Scarborough News Business Excellence Awards 2021. Also SME Funeral Director of the year runners up in 2022 and Winners in 2023. Completing the recent run of the awards winning the funeral director category in the Corporate Live Wire Innovation & Excellence Awards.

G. Roberts Independent Family Funeral Director are proud members of SAIF, Society of Allied and Independent Funeral Directors – the trade organisation nationally from Independent Funeral Directors. In March 2023, George was elected as a member of SAIF's executive committee, this is an acknowledgment to our companies proud independent status.

I hope that you find this brochure helpful and that it will enable you to make informed choices. Please remember that most things can be changed at any time after the initial arrangement meeting, provided they have not already been completed. If you would like to alter or make any additions to the arrangements or if you require any further information or explanations, please feel free to contact the staff at our office for help and advice.

Testimonials

“ The guidance and care taken to unsure my Dads funeral was everything that we requested. We have received excellent after care and recommend them in the future. ”

“ I was so impressed by George and his team. Everyone was so kind, patient and understanding. I was especially impressed by the way George listened to my concerns about how best to help my son process his beloved grandad’s death and funeral. George unprompted came up with some really helpful suggestions to enable the day to go as smoothly as it could for everyone. I would highly recommend George Roberts and his team. ”

“ I would just like to thank George and all his team for the care and professionalism that they gave to me and my family at what was a very difficult time. I could not recommend them highly enough, excellent service. ”

“ George and team provided an impeccable service. From the support and understanding at an emotional time, through guidance and advice on the small touches such as order of service sheets, and suggestions for funeral tea venues. Everything was done kindly, courteously, respectfully, professionally and promptly. It was a huge comfort. This family firm provide a really good funeral service. ”

The first steps taken when a death occurs are often the hardest to make. At G. Roberts Independent Family Funeral Directors we have experienced local staff on call at all times to answer the telephone personally. They can arrange the transfer of the deceased person from the place of death, make contact with a qualified funeral director to give immediate and detailed advice or simply help and guide you through that difficult and no doubt unfamiliar period immediately following a death.

Procedure following an expected death:

Our advice to all families is that when a death occurs they contact us immediately. In many cases now when people pass away in hospital, it is not necessary for us to attend immediately, however our staff can give the helpful advice needed to put people's minds at ease, and to ensure that the family are aware of everything which needs to be done.

Procedure following an unexpected death:

Registration of Death

One part of the 'funeral process' that your funeral director will not be able to do for you is to register the death. This needs to be completed by the legally responsible person, someone present at the death, the occupier of the premises where the death occurred, or the person arranging the funeral. This person must attend the register office with the medical certificate of cause of death (MCCD) issued by the doctor, and the deceased person's birth certificate and medical card (if available). Our staff can advise you on where you must go to do this, and can make the appointment for you. A death normally needs to be registered within five days, unless the Coroner is investigating the circumstances. In certain situations the five day period can be extended.

The Registrar will interview you in private to gather the following information for the register:

- The date and place of death.
- The full name and maiden surname if the deceased person had been married, and any previous names used.
- Their date and place of birth.
- The occupation and, if the deceased person was married or widowed, the full name and occupation of their partner.
- Their permanent address.
- Whether the person who has died was in receipt of a pension from public funds.

- Your name, address and relationship to the deceased person.

Additional details will also be collected by the Registrar:

- The marital status of the deceased person.
- If the person who has died was married or in a civil partnership, the date of birth of the surviving person.

The Registrar will record all details in draft form and will ask you to check that they have been recorded correctly. This will then be copied into the register book, which you will be asked to check through carefully and sign.

On completion the Registrar will issue:

- A certificate for burial or cremation 'green form' which enables the funeral to proceed (however, if the Coroner is involved different procedures may apply). This is issued free of charge.
- A BD8 Department for Work and Pensions (DWP) form for pension or benefit purposes. This is also issued free of charge.
- You may also purchase certified copies of the entry (death certificates) at a cost of £11.00.
- A card for you to complete if you wish for the deceased person's details to be removed from mailing lists, however we will complete this on your behalf.

Financial Advice

Dealing with money matters is often the last thing you want to be doing when you have suffered a bereavement. Unfortunately, it is something that has to be addressed and some financial matters are more pressing than others. Time delays can lead to unnecessary complication and cost.

What should I do first?

The first thing is to register the death and take care of the funeral arrangements.

The cost of the funeral can normally be released directly from one of the deceased person's accounts upon production of the invoice and death certificate, if there are sufficient funds. If there are insufficient funds, you may be eligible to apply for help from the State - please ask and you will be advised of the eligibility criteria.

Once you have attended to the above, it is advisable to write a list with the following information:-

1. Accounts/Shares/ISA's etc.
2. Life Insurance.
3. Private Pensions/Annuities.
4. DWP/State Pension.
5. Utility Companies.
6. Council Tax.
7. Buildings Insurance.

All these people may have to be contacted and if you write a list at the start then this will help organise what needs to be done.

The person that has the responsibility of dealing with the administration of the estate is either:

1. The executor if there is a Will.
2. The next of kin under the rules of Intestacy if there is no Will.

It will be up to them to decide whether they wish to deal with matters personally or whether to get assistance from a Solicitor with the administration of the estate.

The circumstances will dictate, and it is often not required on the first death in a couple whose assets are held jointly.

Some Solicitors offer a free initial consultation to assess whether you require their services, you may wish to take advantage of this. If not and you require assistance later after coming up against something you are finding it difficult to deal with - go and get their help rather than worrying.

Where to find help?

All our funeral directors have a relationship with a local firm of Solicitors who will be able to assist you and be familiar with everything required.

Funeral Costs

Every funeral arranged by G. Roberts Independent Family Funeral Directors will have a written estimate prepared in advance by an experienced funeral director, this will need to be signed along with our contract by the person making the decisions and ultimately responsible for paying the invoice. As part of this process a discussion will take place concerning the funding of the funeral.

We typically ask for a number of third party costs (disbursements) paid between the initial meeting and two working days before the day of the funeral.

The final invoice will be sent approximately one week after the funeral. In the event of the funeral being substantially funded by a pre-paid funeral plan the invoice for any items ordered but not paid for by the plan provider will also be sent at this time.

Invoices to Third Parties

When requested we will send an invoice directly to a third party such as another family member, bank, building society, solicitor or insurance company for payment, and prepare a duplicate copy for information purposes and send this to our client. The client instructing G. Roberts Independent Family Funeral Directors and signing the contract will remain ultimately responsible for payment and interest is payable if a long delay occurs before payment is received in line with our terms and conditions which can be found at www.g-roberts.co.uk.

Other Help Available

Some clients will be eligible for help with funeral costs from the DWP. Our funeral directors will be able to advise clients on their eligibility for such claims based on their receipt of a means tested benefit and the financial situation of the deceased person and their immediate family. The maximum DWP grant does not cover the full cost of a funeral.

We have expert staff available to help with DWP claims and to assist in obtaining any further help available from Government or Charities.

“G. Roberts Independent Family Funeral Directors were friendly, courteous & very professional at such a difficult time & I could not praise them highly enough.”

Music

At most local crematoria a system is available to download music from the internet to use during the service.

We have contact with several soloists, bands, choirs and musicians who can be engaged when required.

Personal Address systems, Video Screens & Recording of Services

Through a relationship with a local firm we are able to offer PA systems to allow a service to be broadcast to a large congregation, video links to extend the service to another venue, and recording equipment to allow a video or audio recording of a service to be made and kept by the family.

Webcasting

Sending live video through the internet allows bereaved relatives and friends to share a loved one's funeral when they are unable to attend in person. We have found that the service is particularly valued by those who live abroad and also those who would like to be present at a funeral but are too unwell to travel.

Catering

If you require catering after the funeral you can either make your own arrangements or contact us to make a booking at a hotel or provide a caterer.

Listing Mourners £80.00

On all funerals we will now offer to send an usher to the place of service beforehand. This practice allows for someone from our firm to welcome all of the mourners, show them to their seats in advance where possible and hand out printed orders of service if these have been provided. The usher will then offer each mourner a card on which to complete their own name, along with that of anyone whom they are representing but is not able to attend. At the end of the service the usher will collect in all of the cards or there is the option of submitting the details online. We produce a list of all the mourners names alphabetically, together with the names of people who could not attend but were represented. Multiple copies can be produced if required.
